Diaper Drive-In

For servants looking for a way to serve, sheltering at home is especially difficult. But, through its partnership with a local help organization, Hope Presbyterian Church in Austin has found a way not only to reach out to its community but to renew the fellowship that had been hampered by the onset of the pandemic. It started when a food pantry issued a call for help for clients in need of diapers. The church responded with collections and weekly distribution plan that maintains safety protocols. A member of the church's session says the diaper drive-in is "a balm for our souls."
